Getting Indexed In Google

This article brought to you by the webmaster of How To Make Money Online and Get Backlinks.

The buzz floating around the webmaster forums is people not sure what the index is and if they know of course they want to know how to get indexed. First you must have a basic understanding of what Google is and how/why it works. Google is a website which sends out a bot that gathers info about websites on the web then categorizes it. So to get listed is as simple as placing a link some place Google bot travels often. There are millions of websites which the G bot hits daily and if your link happens to land on one of these pages you will be indexed. The problem is getting your link on one of these websites it is quite a bit more difficult than you think. For example the G bot visits my website 3-4 times daily searching for updates and new info. I have become accustomed to having my websites indexed within a couple hours since I have a site which is visited regularly. Now this is not the case for the majority of webmasters especially those who woke up today and started trying to make money online. This article will lay out the beginning of a basic marketing plan which will get your website listed into Google within a couple of days or so.

First you must download the Google toolbar and make sure to allow the Google Page Rank Bar. This little green bar is still a good way to tell how important a web page or site is to Google and will tell you if a website worth your time or not. The little green bar has no importance, but to tell you how important the page is to Google it will not determine in any way your position within the SERPs. Once you have the toolbar downloaded it will be time to seek out major sites worth investing your time into. The best place to start for any new webmaster is in the forums. It is almost a rite of passage for those new to the online world trudging through post after post learning from a-z what you must know to make it online. My favorite forum is v7n webmaster community I started and have been active in that forum for a couple years now. The webmasters there taught me the basics and brought me from making nothing to a few hundred monthly.

Personally the places I go first are high PR sites which allow you to place links. Such places include digg.com, ezinearticles.com, buzzle.com, and problogger.com (be sure to leave a good comment on the post you read please do not spam the blog or your comment will be rejected). There are actually many blogs which are do follow and can be used to index your website quickly. To find these go to Google and search for "list of do follow blogs". Anyway I hope you enjoyed this article and it takes some of the guess work out of getting indexed into Google quickly.
