My Experience With Article Twin. Part Two.

Hi guys, getting back to you with the promised report on my Article Twin (“a so-called article marketing efforts optimization service”) hands-on experience. Hope you’ve read the introductory part of my report, so you’re aware of why a guy like me speaks about this online service. Without further ado, the whole stuff with me, being an article writer for Article Twin, started like this and evolved into the following:

Day #1. Late evening registration, read all about the service at their web site etc. Didn’t care to expect much from the first hours or being a member of their site, so went to just went to bed.

Day #2. Unexpectedly, but pleasantly, received 7 orders, all "write articles" type. Wrote short 7 articles (450-500 words), spent a bit over 3 hours. Got all 7 positive reviews. Increased my rate to $0.45 per thousand symbols, which equaled to around 1$ per article.

Day #3. Received 5 new orders. Same stuff. 5 articles submitted, a bit over 2 hours spent, 5 positive feedbacks, my rates changed to $0.70.

Day #4. Two new orders. Both completed and rated positively. Spent less than an hour.

Day #5. Four orders, 3 positive. 2 hours spent. My rate now is $1.05 per 140 words.

Day #6. Four new orders, all with positive feedbacks. Was in a really good mood, as the system started to look very promising, so only spent 2 hours writing.

Day #7. 6 new orders. Wow – that’s good at this rate (I said to myself). After the fifth article, decided to cheat a bit and just copy-pasted some related text. Bad idea, it appeared. I’ve been put into a “black list”, presumably for this last article, which decreased my earnings limit. A good point though – so far, I’ve already earned $31 (WMZ), 20 of which has been transferred to my webmoney “purse” right away.

Day #8. 3 new orders. All positive. Extra good news – I earned almost twice the money, as all three were urgent (3 hours to complete). And another 20 WMZ has landed to my webmoney account, with over $15 still on the system’s balance (they pay out automatically when you have $20 or more accumulated).

So, after a week of a “side job”, as I call it, my rate was $1.6 per 140 words (that’s what one thousands of the symbols including spaces is), which makes it around $5 per “standard” article of 500 words (the one that you have 24 hours to write) or $10 for an urgent one (to be delivered within three hours). Total income: slightly over $55 of which $40 has been put to my webmoney right away.

All said. Article Twin looks like a really reasonable place to work for sure. God bless the article marketing automation. LOL. Well, the system allows you to be paid literally from scratch for writing simple articles. They also have this “spin” service, where you may also earn by adding synonyms to the text, but I didn’t touch that part yet, though there were several orders of that kind too. Will do though, so will probably tell you more in a couple of weeks.
